NEW LIBRARY FOR ADDIS ABABA

Abrehot Library (meaning Enlightenment) recently opened its doors to the public. The construction of the spacious and modern 19,000-square-meter facility took almost two years to construct and cost more than 1.1 billion birr. The 4-storey facility, the largest public library in the country, is equipped with 1.5km long shelves that can stock up to 1.4 million books. The library building also includes 8 bookstores, a delightful children's reading area and parking that can accommodate 115 vehicles at a time. In addition the library currently houses more than 300,000 local and 120,000 international research papers.

This one of its library is located in 4 kilo and is accessible to everyone; there is even a section for breastfeeding mothers and infants, including a braille section for visually impaired people and a modern cafeteria and meeting hall, theatre and playgrounds.

The organisation EthiopiaReads donated 15,000 children's books now on display and ready for children to read in the welcoming and bright new children's library. Books are available in Amharic and other Ethiopian mother tongue languages.

ENTOTO BETH ARTISANS.

One of the first off the beaten track workshops I was excited to discover after moving back here 10 years ago was Entoto Beth Artisans – a small compound with women from Entoto working on creating innovative jewelry made from local recycled materials and scrap metals including coffee beans and bullets excavated from the Entoto Hills!

This business began with the inspiration and help of their NGO partner (Beza Entoto Outreach) and they still work closely with BCDA to transform the community on Entoto.

We have all seen the women backs arched carrying loads of branches down the Entoto Road. Most residents of Entoto have come to St. Mary's Church on the mountain seeking healing from their disease through a regime of fasting, praying and bathing in the holy water near the church. Or they come with afflicted family members. Many women have left their rural communities and family members for the chance to be healed or because they have been outcast by their families... and they find solace in the Entoto community with others who share the disease. However the chance for meaningful employment is slim and often the only resort for earning money is through begging or carrying back-breaking loads of firewood on their backs into the city for less than $1.25 per load. This is where Entoto Beth Artisans comes to light and provides these women with viable and sustainable opportunities.

Today the organisation employs over 200 employees and they offer much more than just coffee bean jewelry!

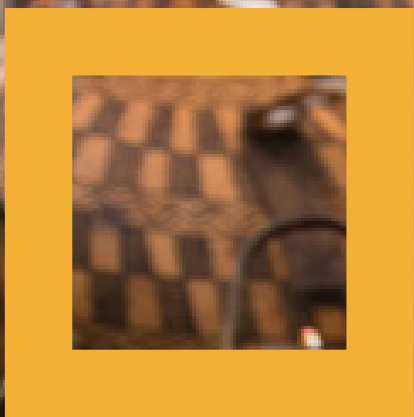

Bethlehem Berhane started Entoto Beth Artisans with the vision of empowering these women living with HIV so prevalent in the Entoto hills above Addis. She began providing counselling and once the women gained confidence she offered fair wage employment and technical training which enabled them to reintegrate into their communities and to become self-supporting earning a living to support themselves.

Nigist Haile, founder and executive director of CAWEE says: "Betty is focused, persistent, strong, assertive in achieving her dreams and stubborn when it comes to her visions. She also has endurance. She's not the kind of person who just gives orders. Her leadership style is service-oriented. She's a role model for her employees."

Artisan Tizita explains, "it is like being part of a family we are friends to each other. We are always discussing our social problems, we find a solution together. It is priceless when you compare it to my life alone years before."

Today the organisation employs over 200 employees and they offer much more than just coffee bean jewelry!

Find their products at the monthly NGO Bazaar at IEC church in Sarbet or visit their workshop near the Egyptian Embassy 0118965097 or 0912605468

RIDE THE RIFT: SPECIAL TOUR PACKAGES

RIDE THE RIFT is a collaborative effort by four Ethiopian tour operators to re-energise Ethiopia's tourism sector after the Covid-19 crisis and the conflict in Northern Ethiopia. In support of the call of PM Dr. Abiy for the Ethiopian Diaspora around the world to join the Great Ethiopian Home Coming, we have developed some special offers to give the diaspora some great options to get out and enjoy Ethiopia. Besides showcasing new destinations and activities in this beautiful country, we want to raise funds to support tourism professionals like guides and cooks who have no income since Covid-19 stopped tourism in March 2020. We run some Charity Events fundraising events, and raise additional funds on longer tours. We are all passionate about Ethiopia and want to share this by showing visitors and Ethiopian diaspora parts of their home country that they maybe haven't seen yet.

Sample Tours:

Gurage Highland & Wonchi Crater: A special package for Diaspora Homecoming! This tour departing every Thursday takes you to one of the most underrated tourist destinations in Ethiopia, yet full of cultural treasures and delicious food: the ever green and peaceful Gurage area.

Gondar and Gorgora at Lake Tana: Visit the romantic imperial castles and churches of Gondar and Ethiopia's biggest lake, Hayk Tana, on its northern shore, where the green and quiet oasis Gorgora lies. See some of Ethiopia's endemic wildlife & beautiful birds.

Sidama coffee and Lake Langano

Explore Ethiopia's Rift Valley lakes until the Sidama coffee region where you can dive into local culture, visit coffee farms and enjoy authentic Ethiopian coffee ceremonies. The perfect ending is Lake Langano where you can bathe among hippos and water birds.

Our tour participants have the support of an experienced and well-organised team of tour leaders supported by professional guides, drivers, cooks and camp managers. We pool our best resources to give clients the best possible experience and we support Community Tourism.

NEW YEAR REFLECTIONS.

By Michael Metaferia

From the land of origins Ethiopia, I send you all my warmest New Year wishes. January 01 marks the New Year for many people around the world just as here in Ethiopia New Year is celebrated by some but the Ethiopian Holy Days of Christmas and Timket are celebrated by millions of Ethiopians both at home in Ethiopia or abroad.

The New Year is a time which brings us new hope, new beginnings and a fresh start. Owing to that, many of us plan new year resolutions: to buy something we really wanted for a while, to stop a longstanding bad habit, or to even start a new routine.

Sunrises are those breath taking moments when the first rays of light shine to break the dawn, bringing a new horizon, a new day full of possibilities.

In Japan, there is a tradition that connects these two observances. Hatsuhinode, the first sunrise of the year, is an important tradition adhered by waking up at dawn to witness the first sunrise on New Year's Day. Whether you're watching from a shrine or mountaintop, this spectacular sight will set the tone for the whole year ahead!

EYERUSALEM HADDIS : INSPIRATIONAL ARTIST

By Edom Belete Habtegebriel

I'd like to talk about a friend and a co-worker of mine whose character, her keen interest and endeavor of portraying the Ethiopian Orthodox church and Ethiopia's history in general, by extracting and reflecting on a canvas what seems to be a thread at first glance, but upon closer inspection reveals its self to be a fabric, never fails to earn my admiration. For anyone who engages with her in a conversation having the proclivity to know about the history of her country, her deep knowledge and understanding which she reflects in her paintings from her perspective, helps that person gain a deep insight.

Having been born and raised in her country, Ethiopia, surrounded by its beautiful landscape, rich religious and cultural diversity and a proud regal past; combined with inspiration from great renaissance artists, she managed to capture the essence of her identity. One piece that evolved from such inspiration, was derived from the book of Enoch where she depicted Enoch contemplating, as he gazed towards several cliff-monasteries from a mountain.

Though her material is sourced from books she has read (a hobby as well as a habit of hers), she manages to depict it from her own viewpoint and sentiment, which present itself as simple yet profound.

Despite being a new artist, she has made great strides in her achievements to which she conveys her deepest gratitude to her loving and supporting husband, who always stood by her side in her artistic endeavors while they are both raising their two lovely children.

Five years from now, she sees herself well versed in Geez language and extensive travel throughout Ethiopia to further uncover stories that haven't yet been told.

Dear readers: Eyerusalem's work, which is endowed with her spiritual journey will be exhibited on large canvasses and properly framed in her solo art exhibition- an attendance that will be truly worthwhile.

ETHIOPIAN ART CONSERVATION PROGRAM

By Naomi Meulemans

The Ethiopian Art Conservation Program (EACP) is a bilateral project between Belgium and Ethiopia which has been in place since January of this year. In August 2021 it became an independent organization responsible for providing restoration and conservation education in Ethiopia. For both the structural build-up of the project and the implementation of the education, EACP calls on Ethiopian professionals.

In January 2020, conservator Naomi Meulemans (The Phoebus Foundation, Antwerp Belgium) set out to explore the cultural sector in Ethiopia; she went in search of her roots and history in the country she left as a child in 1990. Her goal was to bring together Western knowledge of art conservation with the substantive expertise and deontology of dealing with cultural heritage in Ethiopia.

Using our preserved heritage to look back can provide a new interpretation of both cultural issues and traceable evidence of our society's identity. It is precisely this search for identity that forms the founding principles of the Ethiopian Art Conservation Program. Not only does Ethiopia have an unparalleled wealth of historical sites that are part of humanity's anthropological history, but the overwhelming amount of on-going art and cultural experiences is impossible to map. Ethiopian art is inextricably linked to daily and ceremonial life. From childhood one comes into contact with centuries-old traditions which carry liturgical and philosophical meanings. The traditions are recorded in everything, from art objects to utensils and in educational and decorative depictions. It stands above all else that Ethiopia is a crossroads of history, art and culture. There are a variety of projects including everything from excavation sites to well-organized conservation campaigns on historical Ethiopian artifacts inside the country as well as those located in institutions and museums worldwide. Not only have these projects increased the international knowledge of Ethiopian history, they have also stimulated tourist activities throughout the country. In fact, cultural tourism has grown to the point of becoming the number one source of income for local Ethiopian professionals.

While tourism brings with it a renewed vigilance, putting heritage front and center on the table, it is striking that there are no officially organized art conservation and deontology training programs for dealing with heritage within Ethiopia itself. Tourism and the cultural sector seem to be booming, but nurturing, preserving and restoring for the future seem to be largely a foreign affair. However, there is a great local concern for heritage conservation.

Conservators with an interest in this project are welcome to join all of our future events and can find more information on our website: www.ethioart.org.

THE GREAT ETHIOPIAN HOMECOMING DIASPORA EVENT AND CONFER- ENCES

There are lots of events and activities in this month, organized both by the private sector and the government of particular interest and aimed at the returning Diaspora.

WHAT'S OUT WILL LIKE TO WISH YOU WHILE ENJOYING THIS EVENTS happy Ethiopian Christmas and Timket (Epiphany)

Fri, Jan 7, 2022 GENNA (CHRISTMAS) Year after year Christians recall the story of the Christ child in a manger, shepherds on Judean hills witnessing the celestial song of angels as they pronounced the Long Expected One had come. The Ethiopian Christmas (Genna or Ledet) falls on 7 January. Christmas is celebrated after 43 days fasting known as Advent, with a spectacular procession, which begins at 6 a.m. and lasts until 9 a.m. After the mass service, people go home to break the fast with the meat of chicken or lamb or beef accompanied with injera and the traditional drinks (i.e. tella or tej).

Wed, Jan 19, 2022 (TIMKAT (Amharic "baptism") (also spelled Timket, or Timqat) is the Ethiopian Orthodox celebration of Epiphany. It is celebrated on January 19 (or 20 on Leap Year), corresponding to the 10th day of Terr following the Ethiopian calendar. Timket celebrates the Baptism of Jesus in the Jordan River. This festival is best known for its ritual reenactment of baptism (similar to such reenactments performed by numerous Christian pilgrims to the Holy Land when they visit the Jordan)

A PASSION FOR TRADITIONAL FOOD EVOLVES INTO A SUCCESSFUL FEMALE ENTREPRENEUR BUSINESS.

Maheder Admasu created Maheder Food Processing PLC in 2013. With a passion for home prepared food, Maheder had a vision to develop her food business – to not only cater to the local market but fulfil an increasing international demand for traditional Ethiopian cuisine, namely readymade wots, spices and sauces. Maheder’s drive to see her business succeed, led her to become a finalists in a national venture competition. Her business idea in the competition was to provide packed traditional foods, stew, sauces, spices, and drinks. What makes her business unique today is that she distributes traditional wots and other products to supermarkets, hotels and individuals in Addis Ababa. There’s a testing center so that customers can order directly after sampling products. Her products go through thorough and frequent quality control checks conducted by the sub-city. The company has 7 employees, 3 are female and 7 are youth. Management consists of 3 young females. Maheder Food understands the importance of CSR; for instance, an additional charge of 25 cents applied to all products sold directly. The funds once accumulated are used to prepare food which is donated as meals for underprivileged children. Female staff members are also provided with meals, uniforms, and their own restroom facility (including soap). In the area of environmental sustainability, the company generates zero paper waste and separates recyclable materials from waste. Maheder Foods Ethiopia provides high quality, ready-to-eat delicious Ethiopian foods in Bambis and Novis (Inside Hilton Hotel) supermarkets.

THE FATHER OF ETHIOPIAN AIRLINES.

Colonel John Charles Robinson was an American of African descent, a descendant of the enslaved Africans who were taken captive to America. He was recruited to defend Ethiopia against the invading forces of Benito Mussolini. He was not the only African descendant to support Ethiopia. Robinson was part of a generation that responded to the invitation before the war to help modernize Ethiopia. Benito Mussolini was an ally of Adolf Hitler and part of the international Axis Powers. Mussolini's motivation was to punish Ethiopians for their 1896 Adwa victory and to create a colony for Italy. Robinson's thoughts were to help keep Ethiopia forever free and to never become a colony as other African countries.

Born in Mississippi in 1903 Robinson graduated from the famous Tuskegee Institute in 1924. Robinson lived in a racially segregated America---a system of life like apartheid. He received his pilot's license under extreme odds in 1927. In 1930 the world witnessed the coronation of Haile Selassie as the new emperor of Ethiopia. This inspired millions of African descendants around the world for a new future for Africa. During the war years he flew reconnaissance, and was also the personal pilot to Emperor Haile Selassie. He witnessed and reported the enemy's use of mustard gas and other atrocities. He served in the war in 1935 until 1944. Although leaving Ethiopia in 1936 he was part of public appearances to bring attention to the situation in Ethiopia which he felt was being ignored. He later returned to Ethiopia to train pilots for the new air force in 1946. Unfortunately, he died from injuries in a plane crash flying a medical mission in 1954. He is buried in the Catholic Cemetery in Gulele in Addis Ababa.

Honored in death in 2015 the U.S. Embassy in Ethiopia dedicated their reading garden to Colonel Robinson. As seen in Ghana in 2019, called the Year of Return, the new generation of African descendants are traveling to African countries not only for vacations and holidays, but education, investment and relocation. In their return they are seeking to recollect their heritage and roots through genealogy documents, DNA tests, film, oral histories and more. Robinson becomes of great interest to those traveling to Ethiopia and Africa in the 21st century, because in him they see an extraordinary African connection, and a shining example of bravery, heroism and Pan Africanism.

OATMEAL SOAP: BEAUTIFYING & CLEANSING.

There are several benefits to using oatmeal soap. Other than its lavish foaming, it's great for treating skin problems, such as eczema. This little bar is very powerful when it comes to replacing missing nutrients back into your skin. If you're someone who suffers from skin disorders or are just looking for the ultimate-soap to use in the shower, this blog is for you. Here are some benefits for using this extraordinary, rich and organic soap, you may not know. Known as a 'wonder' ingredient, oatmeal and its powerful healing protect your skin from harsh elements. Oatmeal is known for breaking down barriers of aging along with a multitude of almost magical pampering capabilities. It is helpful to our heart as well. One of the biggest reasons people selects this type of soap is, it's ideal for treating skin disorders. As an anti-inflammatory agent, oatmeal has a score of anti-oxidants. People who suffer from skin disorders such as eczema, psoriasis and poison ivy brag about the use of oatmeal. This soap will help control many of these illnesses. But, it's also known for reducing pores, furthermore oatmeal combats the aging process. Calms skin, soothes itching or irritated skin. Many people use oatmeal soap because it's good for all skin types, especially those with sensitive skin. This soap is natural, gentle, and never harsh. People with oily skin can enjoy the absorbing qualities of this type of soap. Oatmeal is excellent for taking up the oil without drying and making it uncomfortable.

Ethiopian Skin Beauty Secret is a start-up business specialising in hand-made organic beauty products : herbal soaps, hair ,treatments, lotions and more. They now make Oat soaps. They have several Addis Locations.

Epilepsy has no identifiable cause in about half the people with the condition. In the other half, the condition may be traced to various factors such as a genetic influence or traumatic head or brain injury. Other conditions that can cause seizures include brain tumours or strokes, central nervous system infectious diseases (such as meningitis, AIDS and viral encephalitis), prenatal injury (babies can suffer brain damage before they are born) from an infection in the mother, poor nutrition or lack of oxygen supply.

At CareEpilepsy Ethiopia, our vision is to see people affected by epilepsy and associated disabilities receive the quality medical care they need and the public respect, fairness and understanding they deserve so that they can live a healthy, productive life, free from discrimination and stigma, and have opportunity to realise their full potential.

Enat Yewnetu is the Founder and CEO of CareEpilepsy Ethiopia, a charity working for people with epilepsy in low-resource countries. She completed her first degree in Business administration from Andrews University (USA) and continued studying for her Masters at East London University in London, England. Whilst in England, she worked as a public health specialist on health improvement, health protection and health services. She is responsible for the overall coordination and management of the epilepsy programmed working hand in hand with local public health agencies and other non-governmental organizations.

CareEpilepsy Ethiopia relies on the generosity of supporters such as yourself. Your financial support helps us continue our mission and assist people living with epilepsy in Ethiopia. To learn more about us, please visit our website www.care-epilepsyethiopia.org and www.facebook.com/CareEpilepsy/

ROASTED AUBERGINE & TOMATO CURRY.

By Chelsie Collins

Preparation and cooking time

- Prep:15 mins
- Cook:45 mins
- Easy
- Serves 4

Slightly sweet with added richness from the coconut milk, this simple vegan curry is a winner. It's also freezable if you need a quick midweek fix

Ingredients

- 600g baby aubergines, sliced into rounds
- 3 tbsp olive oil
- 2 onions, finely sliced
- 2 garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 tsp garam masala
- 1 tsp turmeric
- 1 tsp ground coriander
- 400ml can chopped tomatoes
- 400ml can coconut milk
- pinch of sugar (optional)
- ½ small pack coriander, roughly chopped
- rice or chapatis, to serve

Method

- STEP 1

Heat oven to 200C/180C fan/gas 6. Toss the aubergines in a roasting tin with 2 tbsp olive oil, season well and spread out. Roast for 20 mins or until dark golden and soft.

- STEP 2

Heat the remaining oil in an ovenproof pan or flameproof casserole dish and cook the onions over a medium heat for 5-6 mins until softening. Stir in the garlic and spices, for a few mins until the spices release their aromas.

- STEP 3

Tip in the tomatoes, coconut milk and roasted aubergines, and bring to a gentle simmer. Simmer for 20-25 mins, removing the lid for the final 5 mins to thicken the sauce. Add a little seasoning if you like, and a pinch of sugar if it needs it. Stir through most of the coriander. Serve over rice or with chapatis, scattering with the remaining coriander.

THE ART OF SILVERSMITHING ■

Ethiopia is known and appreciated the world over for its exquisite and intricate Crosses representing the centuries old Orthodox faith of the country going back to the preAxumite period. Crosses were first created out of wood, bone, leather and stone. The Falasha Jews, allegedly first practised the art and skill of producing crosses from silver. During the 19th century with the advent of silver coins, village artisans began to produce the traditionally worn cross in silver, beginning with simply carving a cross from the coin itself. However, in most cases the silver was melted down and a cross was then cast in wax thereby creating unique designs and styles. As the tradition evolved and expanded, many different cross designs began to be attributed to specific regions of Ethiopia. To this day certain styles are still identified with certain parts of the country with crosses from Axum, Lalibela, Gondar and Shewa remaining extremely popular. At the invitation of Menelik II, an Armenian goldsmith made the Imperial Crown and thereafter Armenians began introducing their own style and skill of craftsmanship in particular the delicate work of filigree.

Typically today to meet the continued demand for crosses, raw material is collected from different sources including used or damaged silver or old coins mostly from Yemen; sterling and fine silver sheet metal and bar stock (copper and brass included) are also used.

I was privileged to be invited to observe silversmithing in action in a Piassa workshop: After the melting of the raw material, the design is then drawn on paper and placed over the silver or metal and specific shapes are then cut accordingly. Hammers are also used to form the metal at room temperature; as the material is hammered, bent, and worked, it hardens. The design is "burned" into the silver or metal and then has to be smoothed repeatedly until it becomes very fine using hand tools for this detailed task. Once heated by charcoal, modern silversmiths commonly use gas-burning torches as heat sources or even laser beam welding. Finally, once the design is set, the piece of jewelry must be cleaned in a solution of boiling water, lemon and salt several times. Next a hard brush and fine cloth are used for the drying and polishing processes until the finished product is smooth and gleaming and ready to be displayed! If you cannot afford silver or gold, then you can still opt for copper or brass or nickel which are individually crafted. Particular thanks go to designer/silversmith Mulugeta Behailu who allowed me into his Piassa workshop to observe and photograph artisans performing this delicate and intricate work. His shop specialising in beautiful silver items is located in Haya Hulet in front of St. Gabriel Hospital.
